THEORY OF CHANGE

Our impact screening process.

Maia Capital developed its Theory of Change to analyse and measure impact properly. Every new opportunity is screened in three steps.

01

Link to the problem

Link the transaction to our central problem statement and to any of the nine identified problems.

02

Assess intentionality

Intentionality can be measured through:

- The product or service the company offers
- The company's activities or processes
- The intentionality of the company itself
- Other relevant evidence

03

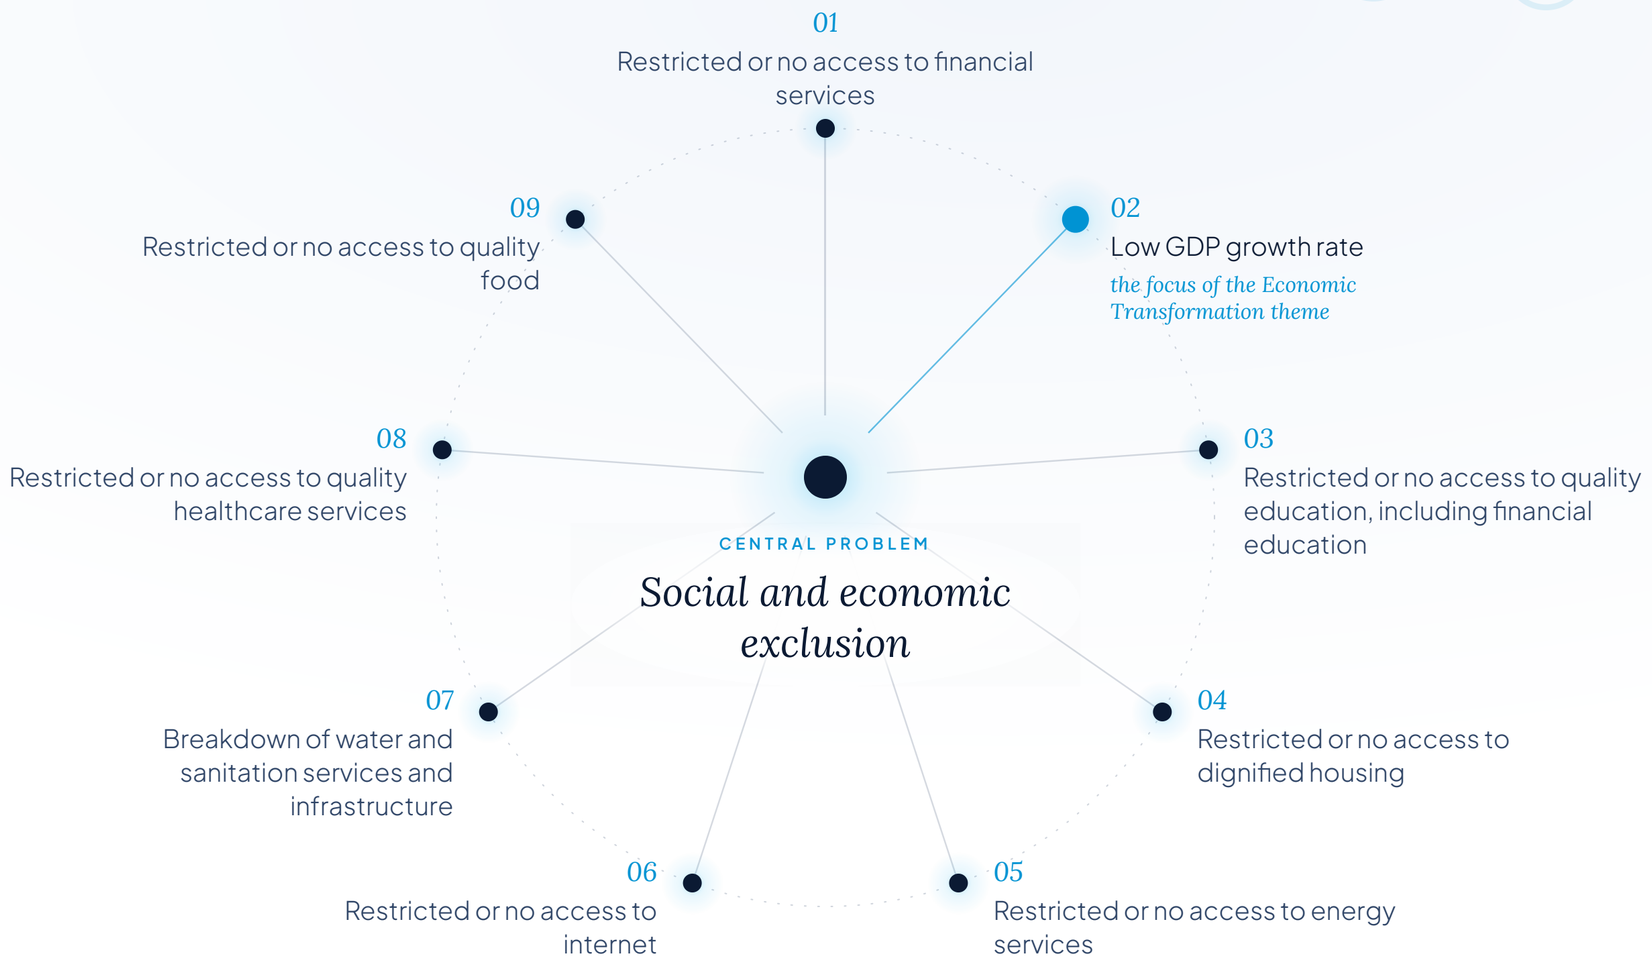

Map the theory of change

- Objectives
- Outputs
- Short- and long-term impact
- Legacy and SDG alignment

THEORY OF CHANGE

The problems we address.

Nine problems, across people and community development and territorial development. Every transaction must link to at least one of them.

THEORY OF CHANGE · LOGIC MODEL

From problem to legacy.

01
Problems
What problem do we want to, and can we, solve? What does it mean for people, the region and other stakeholders?

02
Objectives
How can we solve the problem? What solutions and activities need to be performed?

03
Outputs
What are the measurable effects of the objective and activity?

04
Short-term impact
What economic and socio-environmental change will be generated over the next five years?

05
Long-term impact
What economic and socio-environmental change will be generated over the next fifteen years?

06
Legacy
What stays for society if Maia Capital does not exist in the future?

Legacy is the key test: what remains for the society even if Maia Capital no longer exists.

Logic model based on Seall's questionnaire methodology.

THEORY OF CHANGE IN PRACTICE · WORKED EXAMPLE

Theory of change, applied to FinCredit.

Restricted or no access to financial services: from the problem to the output.

PROBLEM

People with restricted or no access to financial services.

CONTEXT

South Africa faces a structural over-indebtedness crisis: 10.54 million consumers, more than a third of those who are credit-active, have impaired credit records. Rising living costs, high unemployment and renewed rate hikes are pushing households to borrow for essentials, often through costly payday loans. The existing options leave a gap. Bank consolidation is closed to impaired borrowers, and few people use formal debt review because it freezes their access to credit.

OBJECTIVE

Promote financial and economic inclusion, especially for historically disadvantaged people and women.

FINCREDIT

FinCredit fills the gap between costly short-term credit and formal debt review, giving overstretched households immediate relief without locking them out of the financial system. Its model combines two elements: a debt consolidation loan, and a six-month financial wellness programme running alongside the loan, building budgeting, credit and financial-planning skills so that clients stay out of debt. Maia Capital invested R100.0m in the business.

OUTPUT

Substantially increase the share of people, especially historically disadvantaged people and women, with access to financial services.

FINCREDIT

To date, FinCredit has advanced about R95m, of which R38.3m has been made available to women.

THEORY OF CHANGE IN PRACTICE · FINCREDIT

From impact to legacy.

SHORT-TERM IMPACT

Increase savings and financial literacy for historically disadvantaged people and women.

FINCREDIT

Clients have achieved R3.5m in cost savings to date, and over 300 clients have taken part in the rehabilitation and wellness programme.

LONG-TERM IMPACT

Lasting change for women and for South African society.

Women empowered to emancipate themselves economically

SDG targets 8.5, 5.A, 5.C

Racial equality in South African society

SDG targets 10.2, 1.4

LEGACY

Inclusive development that promotes social, economic and environmental justice.

SDG targets 5.1, 10.1, 10.2, 10.3

FinCredit sits in the financial inclusion theme, which addresses restricted or limited access to financial products and services for South Africans and SMEs.

07 · LOOKING AHEAD

Looking ahead

Maia Capital Fund II: the seventh star

Tshanduko Ramusetheli · Chief Executive · 11:45–11:50

GLOBAL CONTEXT

Private credit: a structural shift in global capital markets.

$1.7trn

GLOBAL PRIVATE CREDIT AUM · PREQIN, 2025

Private credit has grown from a niche alternative into a global asset class, driven by sustained bank retrenchment from mid-market and sub-investment-grade lending, LP demand for yield in a higher-for-longer rate environment, and a structural mismatch between available bank capital and real-economy credit demand. These global dynamics are arriving in South Africa with particular force.

Maia Capital Partners
Connect with opportunity

ASSET CLASS COMPARISON

Private credit vs private equity: why debt wins now.

For investors seeking strong risk-adjusted returns in South Africa's mid-market, private credit offers a structurally superior risk-return profile to private equity, particularly with constrained exit markets, currency volatility and uncertain terminal valuations. It:

- Generates predictable current income
- Recycles capital faster
- Sits senior in the capital structure

Illustrative cash-flow profiles of the two asset classes; not fund data or projections.

STRATEGY FRAMEWORK

Fund II: a multi-pronged approach.

i.

Competitive returns

Target returns of CPI + 8% all-in, driven by strong credit fundamentals.

ii.

Development alignment

Invest in sectors of national priority, where South Africa's development needs create large, underserved investment opportunities.

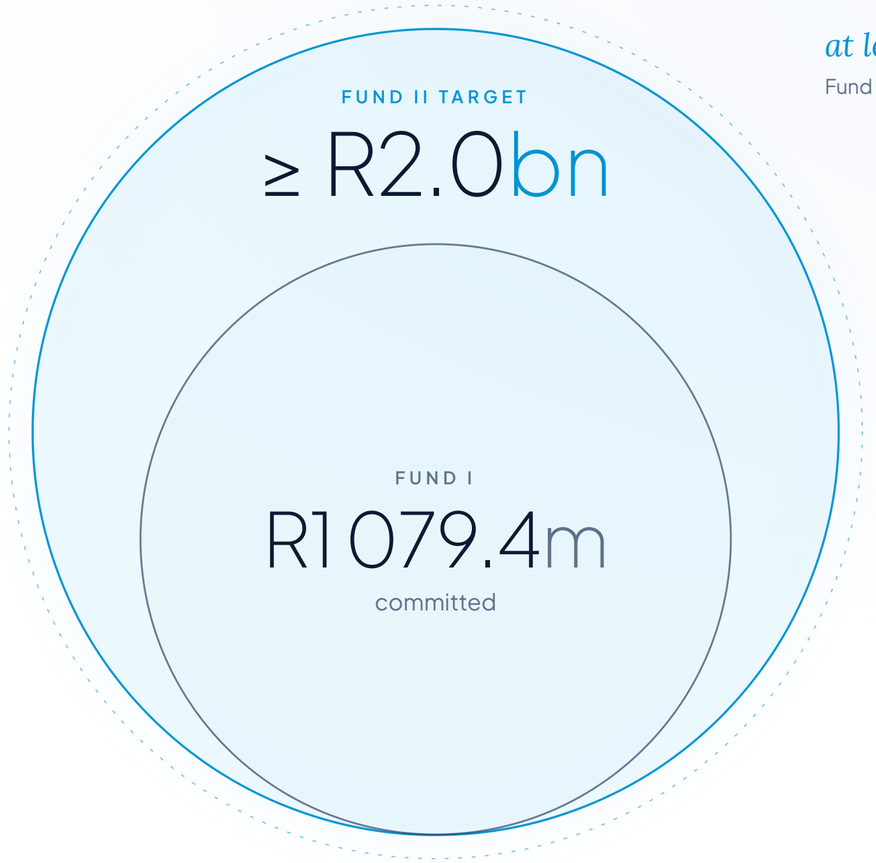

iii.

Sustainable investing

Adopt globally recognised frameworks, including the UN Principles for Responsible Investment and the UN Sustainable Development Goals.
